

WICKMAN HELD NOT GUILTY IN COTURRI CASE

E. J. Wickman, postmaster of Ryan, Calif., who was arrested and charged with manslaughter after his automobile had run down and fatally injured Policeman Al Coturri of San Bruno on the state highway near the Leipsic crossing shortly before 1 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, July 29, was on last Friday morning given his freedom.

Justice of the Peace Edward Farrell, in whose court the case was heard, held that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the conviction of Wickman on the charge brought against him by Constable James Wallace.

Wickman appeared in his own behalf. He told a straightforward story, which was corroborated by his brother, Fred Wickman. He said he did not see the officer until he was struck.

At the time of the mishap, Officer Coturri was investigating an accident in which two machines, a Locomobile and an Essex, had collided on a curve in the highway near Leipsic crossing. He heard a machine approaching and stepped into the highway in front of the damaged Essex, the lights of which were burning. The oncoming car swerved to pass the Essex at the turn and in so doing struck the policeman.

BLAZE LEVELS OLD LANDMARK OF PESCADERO

Fire starting from the overturning of a lamp by a Japanese father caring for a sick child, shortly after 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, completely destroyed the famous old Chandler home on the Level Lea ranch, Pescadero, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Asa T. Weeks, according to advices reaching here from the coastside.

The Japanese, T. Kuwahara, saved the lives of his two small children while his wife fled from the burning building. All household effects were destroyed.

The old Chandler place was among the oldest homes in the Pescadero country, in its day being one of the principal gathering places of the coastside society. Mrs. Asa T. Weeks is a daughter of the Chandlers. The destruction of the house removes one of the principal Pescadero landmarks.

The Kuwahara family has been occupying the place on the ranch for some time. A few moments after 3 o'clock Wednesday morning the father arose to care for a sick child. It was while carrying a lamp which he had just lighted that he overturned the same, an explosion following and the flames spreading quickly.

Though slightly burned himself and facing increasing flames, the father rushed to the beds of his children and carried them through smoke to safety.

FIRE FIGHTER BADLY BURNED

Ed. M. Dearborn, road construction contractor, a candidate for county supervisor from the third supervisorial district, incurred painful burns about the right hand and arm Wednesday in a successful attempt to prevent the spread of a fire breaking out in a bedroom of the home of Capt. J. H. Davies, Vera and Davis streets.

Rushing into the room after he had been attracted by the fire, Dearborn was burned when he seized flaming bedclothes and other burning articles and threw them from the house, thus averting the spread of the flames and saving the bedroom at least from being gutted by flame. He was given first aid treatment later and it was stated that while painful, Dearborn's injuries to his hand and arm are not serious.

Members of the Redwood City fire department extinguished the remaining fire in the Davies home. The blaze is believed to have been started by a cigar which Captain Davies is said to have laid on his bed while smoking at an early hour. Davies was at a neighbor's house when the fire broke out.

MENS' CLUB IN BASEMENT OF LIBRARY IS PLANNED

Backed by the enthusiastic support of all men who have been made acquainted with the plan, a committee of women appointed by the South San Francisco Library Board to look into the matter of establishing a club room for men in the basement of the library, is now at work on the plan.

The committee consists of Mrs. Jennings, Mrs. Garcia and Mrs. Singleton.

City Attorney John F. Davis is actively supporting the plan.

It is proposed to have the club room open each evening from 7 to 10, except on the night when it is to be used by Boy Scouts. The basement, with its cement floor and stage, is ideal for the purpose, it is said, and would make a fine rest room for men where they might read and smoke, talk, politics or swap hunting stories.

The basement is well heated and ventilated.

A report will be made by the committee at an early date.

HUNTER FINDS BODY OF MAN

The unidentified body of a man was discovered early Tuesday morning back of a Portuguese ranch in Visitation Valley, north of South San Francisco, by Amadeo Amberto, who was hunting in the vicinity. The body was lying face upward in a deep ravine. There was a bullet hole in the head.

The discoverer of the grisly object rushed to South San Francisco, where he notified Constable J. C. Wallace and Deputy Coroner S. Nieri.

The three returned to the body. They found a .45 Colt revolver, with one bullet exploded, nearby. There were no signs of foul play. The condition of the corpse indicated it had lain in the ravine for several months.

At an inquest held at the Nieri undertaking parlors Tuesday night, the coroner's jury held the case to be one of apparent suicide.

WEBB RENEWS BAY BRIDGE FRANCHISE Engineer Denies Selling Out His Interest COYOTE POINT PROJECT IS COMPLICATED

Declaring that reports to the effect that he has "sold out" his interest in the proposed Coyote Point Bridge across San Francisco Bay are foundations and "based solely upon the gossip of Daniel Imboden and J. J. McGrath," Frank Eldridge Webb, proponent of the bridge plan around whom a bitter controversy has waged in the northern San Mateo county for the past year, Monday appeared before the county board of supervisors and secured an extension of his original permit to construct such a bridge for a period of six months. Imboden is secretary of the Three Cities chamber of commerce. McGrath is postmaster of San Mateo.

Coming at a time when other financial interests were reported planning immediate start of construction work on the Coyote Point bridge, the granting of the extension of franchise to Webb came as a bombshell, and was followed immediately by assertions that his action means the complete frustration of the north bay project for at least another six months.

What motive actuated Webb's unexpected and dramatic appearance before the supervisors to virtually tie the hands of his opponents, other than his expressed intention of "going through with the job" was problematical in financial and official circles Monday.

Webb directly charged in private conversation that his position in the bridge matter has been wrongly given by Imboden and McGrath, whom he charges, are seeking to get control of the bridge franchise for themselves and others.

The engineer denied emphatically that he has sold out his interests in the bridge or transferred them in any way, contrary to the effect that he had thus sold out. In support of this Webb revealed what he termed "promising letters" from his New York attorneys, vouchsafing his financial position and capability of "putting through the job." These letters inquired as to the sources of information of western press clipping reporting the purported sale of his interests by Webb, to which he replied, he says, that "the foundation for the stories is nothing more than the gossip of Imboden and McGrath."

Rapid developments in the complicated situation now brought to light are expected in San Mateo with the revelation to Webb's opponents of his success in procuring the new bridge permit from the supervisors.

The supervisors granted to the Kaiser Paving Company the contract for the construction of the new lateral to the Skyline boulevard, the bid of that company being $17,749.52.

A. J. Greer was granted the contract for the improving of San Bruno avenue, and A. J. Raich was awarded the contract for improving the old Mission road from South San Francisco to Holy Cross.

The first division of vote to be recorded on a question before the board in many months was made when Supervisor John MacBain and Rosalie M. Brown voted against calling for report of activities of the county community hospital commission, which was reported as inactive. Supervisors Hickey, Thompson and Francis voted in favor of calling for a report of its work from the commission.

Y.M.I. AND Y.L.I. DELEGATES WILL BE ENTERTAINED

The hundreds of delegates who will attend the grand councils of the Young Men's Institute and Young Ladies' Institute of the Pacific Jurisdiction, which will convene in Sacramento Sunday, will find that a great deal has been done to provide for their care and entertainment, according to Miss Nora Moloney, member of the reception committee. Many private homes will be thrown open to the visitors for informal affairs.

The members of the reception committee desire to enhance the reputation gained by Sacramento for hospitality and entertainment when the convention of the two organizations was held in 1919, and to surpass all other grand councils in the matter of social entertainment to the end of making the capital of California better known as a convention city.

Miss Moloney, together with Miss Marie Parenti and Ethel Boden, members of the reception committee representing the Sacramento councils of the Young Ladies' Institutes on the general committee of reception, are planning decorations for the headquarters on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Sacramento and will have a registration office and reception rooms containing desks for private correspondence for the convenience of the delegates and visitors.

One of the outstanding social features of the two grand councils will be the reception and pre-convention ball which will take place Saturday evening in the Masonic Temple. A special train will be run to Sacramento from San Francisco and East Bay district, arriving in time to participate in this event.

GROWTH OF COUNTY SEAT IS HEALTHY

With a total assessed valuation for 1924-25 of $4,545,905, Redwood City boasts an increase in valuation over last year of $303,460, according to announcement of figures compiled by City Clerk W. A. Price, ex-officio city assessor, filed with the Redwood City trustees at their annual meeting as a board of equalization. The increase is one of the largest in recent years.

The bulk of the increase in valuation, Price's figures show, lies in the western residential districts of the city, or what is known as the "annex." The "old town" or that portion lying east of the state highway, showed a slight gain, however.

Price's 1924-25 assessment role figures as submitted are as follows:

Old Town	$2,068,965
Annex	2,477,940
Total	$4,545,905

Figures on assessed valuation of the community for last year, 1923-24, given for comparison, are as follows:

Old Town	$2,059,495
Annex	2,183,050
Total	$4,242,545

The increase in valuation in the "annex," or territory west of the highway, is therefore found for the year to be $294,790, and that of the "old town" to be $8,570.

Sitting as a board of equalization on the assessment roll and valuation thereon for 1924-25, the trustees proceeded to adjust one slight complaint, whereupon they voted approval and acceptance of the assessment roll as submitted by Price. The city clerk has an unusual record of unchallenged assessment valuations throughout the past seven years.

WALLACE, ERTLE IN DRAW AT SAN MATEO BOUTS

Main Event Saved From Being a Bust by a Strong Finish

By Harry Borba

What had all the earmarks of a bust as a main event was saved in the last few seconds of milling when Bobby Ertle landed a right hook on the jaw of Harry Wallace, the colored featherweight, sinking him for a count of nine, last Thursday night, in the main event at Elms Athletic Club in San Mateo.

Wallace got up fighting and the two boxers threw everything they had until the final gong stopped them. The knockdown earned a draw verdict for Ertle, and might even have earned him a decision had the judges been a trifle more generous.

Wallace started slowly and exhibited a vast respect for Ertle's right hand. Ertle was just as respectful of the Negro's right jab, a punch that lowered him for a count of two in the second round.

With both men so cautious, the thrilling finish became a necessity. "Nin" Minnick and George Decker fought the best battle of the night. Both are shifty and fast, and while neither hit exceptionally hard they showed a great willingness to give all they had. The draw decision was popular, although Minnick enjoyed a slight shade in the second and fourth rounds with the other two even up.

"Petie" Coffey and Al Walker don't like each other. They demonstrated that when they started slugfests with the first bell. Coffey had a pronounced edge, as he carried the fight to Walker and forced him to hold on when the going got rough. Walker's rights to Coffey's head evidently impressed the judges as they called the thing a draw.

"Goosie" Smith, the pride of South City, picked another easy mark and scored the only knock out of the evening. "Goosie," who is a southpaw by nature, hooked his left to Billy Ford's engine room early in the first round and stalled him temporarily. Ford took a count of eight and got up for more. "Goosie" laid back and measured him with a left to the jaw and put Ford out of commission for the rest of the evening.

Sammy Offerman won a decision from "Portland Jimmy" Duffy in the third bout of the evening. The opening three rounds were even, but Offerman showed too much fight in the last frame and won.

Kid Kirby and Benny Johnson fought a tame four-round go in the second contest. Johnson substituted for Johnny Lagatta, but he might well have stayed at home for all the good he did. Kirby showed a willingness to stop anything and everything with his head to get in a body punch or two. It was even-steven.

Eddie Neelis substituted for Pat Foley against Tommy Ryan in the first preliminary. What Neelis knew about boxing a fish knows about flying. He punched like a man playing shuffleboard. Ryan, who is no Benny Leonard himself, dropped Neelis with a right to the jaw in the second and Bobby Johnson did the only wise thing there was to do and stopped the fight.

The crowd was smaller than at the previous card, but large enough to advise the fighters.

"Red" Foraker of the Enterprise Foundry, won batting honors for the first half of the Enterprise Twilight Baseball League season, which closed last week.

Gus Figueroa, catcher for the Western Pipe nine, is close on the heels of Foraker with an average of .692 for four games. Foraker and Figueroa are tied for honors in making two-base hits with three apiece.

Home run hitting honors are held by Kelley, Western Meat outfielder, who has made four in five games. Kelley is also the leading run-getter of the league. He has scored 12 times in 5 games. Figueroa is second in runs scored with 10.

Miller of the Western Pipe nine leads the three-base hitters with three to his credit in four games.

RAW MEAT TEAMS TAKE OPPONENTS' MEASURE IN LEAGUE CONTESTS

Western Meat Beats Pacific Coast Steel Nine, 5 to 1, While Virdens' Outfit Carves Marble Players, 7 to 4

Joe Wette's Western Meat Products Nine got off to a flying start in the second half of the Enterprise Twilight Baseball League season Monday night and successfully spoiled the entry of Pacific Coast Steel into the realm of afternoon baseball by beating the latter nine, 5 to 1.

Herman Raddatz had another big afternoon on the hill, allowing the steel rollers but 1 bingle in 5 innings of baseball. In addition, Virden was lead by Eddie Ringle who whiffed 10 batsmen. Johnny Wallace, who opposed him, allowed 5 hits. However, the hits Johnny allowed were made to count for runs.

Western Meat scored 1 run in the 1st inning when Greeley and Boller welcomed Wallace with 2 healthy base hits. Another run added in the second, 2 in the third and another in the 4th completed their total of 5.

Raffell scored the Pacific Coast Steel workers in the 2nd when he made the lone hit off Raddatz and was chased home by his team mates. Two other times the steel players populated the bags, but they were unable to hit Raddatz when they needed the runs. The score:

GRAPES BRING GOOD PRICE

According to E. M. Sheehan, president and manager of the California Grape Growers' Exchange, which handles exclusively a large bulk of the juice or wine grapes from vineyards located principally in the northern section of the state, there has been unprecedented demand during the past month for this class of grapes. His statement, in part, follows:

"Wine grapes are in the lead in market quotations over table and raisin varieties, and even the county crops are being sought not only by the California shipping companies but by speculators and by wire as well from many of the eastern centers, where buyers and brokers representing eastern buyers, are particularly eager for the black varieties, out of which dark juice or wine is made, the wine being of the claret type.

"The demand for these black varieties has stimulated the prices of the white grapes, and even the raisin types have benefited by the unusual call for the blacks. There is a great difference, however, between the offerings for the whites and those for the blacks. The raisin types, such as Muscat, Thompson Seedless, Sultanias and others, have been commanding in the neighborhood of $20 per ton without boxes, while the blacks have been bringing from $60 to $100 per ton, according to the variety. Zinfandel, Grenache, Burgundy, Petite Sirah, Pinot and such types are firm at $60 naked, while the Mataro and Carignane types are doing $10 per ton better. The Missions are likewise in demand, and the Alicante variety, which is characteristically high-colored, runs up readily to $90 and $100 per ton. These prices are based on shipping points in California and do not include the cost of boxes and the loading."

VANTAGGIOSI PREZZI PER UVE

Secondo rapporti del Signor E. M. Sheehan, presidente ed amministratore della California Grape Growers' Exchange, vi e' stata domanda maggiore di ogni precedente richiesta per sugo ed uve da vino delle vigne situate principalmente nella sezione settentrionale della stato. La California Grape Growers' Exchange commercia esclusivamente nel succinato prodotto ed il suddetto signor Sheehan attesta in parte quanto segue:

"Le domande per uve da vino hanno evidente e marcata precedenza nel mercato sulle varie uve da tavola ed il raccolto delle contee della costa e' sollecitato non solamente dalle campagne di California, ma bensì da speculatori e per telegrafo dai numerosi centri dell' Esa, dove compratori e commissionari rappresentano centri dell' Est sono particolarmente avidi per le nere varietà dalle quali si produce sugo o vino, quest' ultimo essendo del tipo Claret. La forte domanda di queste nere varietà ha stimolato il prezzo delle uve bianche e perfino il tipo uva secca ha ricevuto beneficio dalla straordinaria domanda delle uve nere.

"Esiste tuttavia gran differenza tra le offerte delle uve bianche e quelle delle nere. Il tipo uva secca, come Moscato, Thompson Seedless, Sultanias ed altri hanno portato il prezzo di circa $20 la tonnellata senza scatole, mentre le nere hanno raggiunto il prezzo da $60 a $100 per tonnellata secondo la varietà. Lo Zinfandel, Grenache, Burgundy, Petit Sirah, Pinot ed altri tipi del genere sono fermi prezzi a $60, mentre il Mataro ed il tipo Carignane sono riportati a $10 di più n. tonnellata. Le uve Missions sono parimenti in domanda e la varietà Alicante che e' caratteristicamente colorata ascende da $90 a $100 la tonnellata. I suddetti prezzi sono basati su posti di spedizione in California e non includono il costo delle casse e quello del carico.

Time to go to Work
EARLY TO BED
and EARLY TO RISE

Because it is near bedtime when you get home and you have to start early in the morning to be at your work in the morning is certainly not wisdom.

What do you say now when a fellow suggests you watch or take part in one of the Twilight League Baseball games? Do you say, "I have to go home, I have a long way to travel"?

When the wife and family announce they would like to see a show or visit friends do you say, "We'll have to wait until Sunday, I must get up early in the morning to go to work"?

Life is just what you make it. Perhaps yours would be made happier if you lived near your place of employment.

Construction Company Recognizes Merits of Supervisor Hickey

The Enterprise last week took pleasure in pointing out some of the accomplishments of Supervisor Thomas Hickey. It is gratifying to know that the Barrett & Hilp Construction Company of San Francisco sees in the supervisor an official who saved San Mateo county at least $45,000. How this happened is shown in the following letter, which explains itself:

BARRETT & HILP
Building Construction

918 Harrison street, San Francisco
Telephone 700

August 5, 1924.

Mr. Thomas Hickey, Supervisor, San Mateo County,
South San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Mr. Hickey:

Knowing that the election for supervisors of San Mateo county will take place on the 26th of August and that you might be interested to know that you have been instrumental in saving San Mateo county a great deal of money, I want to give you some facts that you may be interested in.

By advocating the letting of the contract for the San Mateo County Hospital at the time that you did on June 19, 1921, and not postponing the same until a year later, about 15 per cent which was due to advance in certain materials and labor conditions was saved. This was between June 19th, 1921, and the latter part of 1922.

We believe, that out of an investment of $300,000.00 which the San Mateo County Hospital probably stands at, that you have saved San Mateo County at least $45,000.00.

Both Mr. Barrett and myself extend to you our best wishes for your re-election and beg to remain,

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) HARRY H. HILP, of Barrett & Hilp.

SUNDAY CLOSING

Sunday closing of stores and shops, a movement long contemplated by local merchants, has at last reached South San Francisco. As per agreement, storekeepers kept their doors locked all day during the Sunday just passed. While it is true that there were some customers who sought admittance in vain, it will not take them long to learn to buy their food and clothing on the six other days of the week.

The important thing for merchants to remember now is that they must give their plan a fair trial. After sufficient time has elapsed, let the rule be revoked if it has not proven successful. But there is little doubt as to the fairness and desirability of one day's rest in seven.

A PERMANENT FLOATER

No Country Can Stand Emma Goldman Long; Soviet Russia Passes Her On

That disturbing apostle of anarchy, Emma Goldman, has a way of wearing out her welcome in whatever country she is placed. During her years in America she made herself an incessant nuisance by her anti-law, anti-government activities, until finally her intolerable conduct led to her deportation to Russia. There, too, she has become classed as undesirable, the soviet government having requested her to move on for her criticisms of their ways. We now learn that she is on her way to England, where she plans to remain a year, unless requested to pass on.

Probably Emma considers that under most favorable circumstances a year is about the limit of a country's endurance of her tongue and her influence. This might be all right if it were not for the fact that as her reputation grows it will become increasingly more difficult for her to find a haven anywhere for any period, however brief.

WE TOO ARE QUEER

What in Europe Is More Absurdly Unnecessary Than Our Notification Ceremonies?

We think the Europeans a queer lot because of their vestigial customs which perpetuate in court ceremonies and elsewhere observances that have long survived the reasons for their origin. But we have a few of those things over here. For instance, there are the notification ceremonies whereby the presidential candidates weeks after their nomination are solemnly stood before a crowd and informed in long passages of oratory that they were nominated. The spectacle of a nominee working for days on a speech of acceptance to deliver when notified of a certain thing that it is considered necessary and proper that he should know about himself would be funny indeed if we could view it from a foreign standpoint.

STATE SHOULD FINISH THE JOB

Highway Commission Backs Sentiment of the Peninsula Regarding the Bayshore Road

Months ago when the building of the Bayshore highway down the peninsula was first launched, the civic bodies of this region agreed that the project was one worthy of state financing, and the matter of interesting the members of the state highway commission was said at that time to be necessary for the success of the plan. It is with great gratification, therefore, that the same bodies today find the chairman of the highway commission urging them to get behind the movement.

Referring to a traffic census taken on a recent Sunday, Chairman Harvey M. Toy of the highway commission says that 42,000 automobiles were counted passing Redwood City. "This," he says, "seems to me to be an unanswerable argument for another road into San Francisco and a call for immediate action on the part of every resident of San Francisco and the peninsula district."

"The city of San Francisco has agreed to pay $500,000 for the first unit of the Bayshore highway in San Mateo county from South San Francisco to Pacific City. The state should finish the job, as it is a road of great state-wide importance and should be taken over by the next legislature as a state highway and funds provided for its construction."

On this there is perfect agreement between the peninsula bodies and the highway commission—"the state should finish the job."

But if we would have the state finish it, we must begin at once to convince the legislature, working through the intercessory body known as the "committee of nine" appointed by the governor, through authorization of the last legislature to report on additions to the state highway system and recommend methods of financing.

The job of peninsula civic bodies as well as of municipal and county boards is laid out. Write to the members of the "committee of nine" advancing the arguments in behalf of our claim.

Who Can Say Just Who and What Is a "Reactionary," "Conservative," "Progressive," "Liberal" or "Radical"?

This being election year, when we are fore-ordained to hear many discussions revolve about such terms as "reactionary," "conservative," "progressive," "liberal" and "radical," it would be helpful to the average reader if the words could be defined in their political sense. But, as used politically, they cannot be reduced to standard definitions. They are relative terms at best, and whatever they mean in any case depends upon the starting point of the speaker or writer. The words as used by the disciples of one candidate have a far different meaning, in intent at least, from their usage in a competitive group.

It is interesting to note the attitude of each classification toward the others in the graduated list running from reactionary to radical. The term "reactionary," for instance, is one of scorn. No one admits being a reactionary. The opponent very likely is an extreme reactionary, but the man himself, never.

The application "conservative" is considered by those who range about that classification to connote safety, respectability and common sense, although in radical circles the conservative is adjudged as a stagnant force with little more to recommend him if he were a reactionary outright. The conservative himself is rarely content to wear that label without any trimming. In his own mind he may be "liberal conservative," though most often he would describe himself as a progressive.

It is at this point that definitions are most confused. "Progressivism" is the term in the list which has a cloud on its title. It is claimed by the forces on both ends of the list. The conservative considers himself progressive. The radical traces his own origin to a progressive. He is, in his own estimate, the progressive in full flowering, having advanced proudly beyond the "liberal" stage, at which he likely wavered in his course, wondering whether to return to mere progressivism convenient to the shelter of respectability afforded by conservatism, or to brave the dangers ahead and speed toward radicalism with its crown of martyrdom.

The radical, full fledged, is proud of himself. However insulting the conservative may intend to be when he points his finger at the radical and calls him by that name, he merely thrills the latter by that act and makes him feel that the leap has been worth while.

Suggestions Made for Twice Cooked Meats

Meat which is reheated or twice cooked is less nourishing than when first prepared because, no matter how careful the cooking process, a certain amount of the nutritive juices will escape in the first cooking, although usually a portion of this is retained and served as a sauce or gravy. So the wise housewife prepares various savory sauces when reheating meat or fish, to overcome this loss of flavor and add to the palatability of these warmed-over dishes.

Twice cooked meat, if properly prepared, is very appetizing and not hard to digest—unless reheated in such a fashion as to render it tough and leathery. It is also necessary to bear in mind when preparing these various dishes, that the meat should never be actually twice-cooked, but merely reheated.

Whenever vegetables, sauces, etc., are to be added to cooked meat or fish, they should be thoroughly cooked before being combined with the ingredients to be reheated. The cooked meat or fish, when reheated, should be protected if possible from coming in direct contact with the heat of the fire, oven or fat; which means that the reheating process should be accomplished by adding the cooked food to a hot sauce, or be combined with other materials.

The finer these cooked ingredients are, the less time required for reheating, and the more quickly will they absorb the sauce, which is to give flavor to the dish. However, this does not mean to mash the meat or fish, but carefully chop it; also be careful to remove all bone, gristle and undesirable portions before chopping, and if cutting in cubes or slices, have the pieces of uniform size. It will greatly to the appearance of the finished dish.

Any kind of cooked fish, meat and some vegetables may be used in making croquettes. Meat and fish croquettes are simply a finely-chopped mixture combined with a thick sauce, then crumbed, shaped, dipped in egg, then in crumbs again and fried in deep fat. Whatever variety of meat or fish the rules for the sauce, molding and frying are the same.

The meat course can easily be dispensed with by making attractive vegetable, egg or cheese dishes. Most doctors and dietitians claim that the average American family eat more meat than it requires, so why not plan to have at least one dinner a week meatless? It will usually be found less expensive and the household would be benefited also.

Of course, the family must be supplied with food fully as valuable to the diet as meat, and in order to accomplish this the housewife must understand a few fundamental principles governing the proper selection and combinations of food.

The average housekeeper will hold up her hands in despair when food values are suggested, and to many the subject seems too scientific to grasp, and in a measure this is true. However, the following guide is not at all complicated, and the progressive housewife of today will do much better when making meals, meatless or otherwise, if she thoroughly understands these principles.

The body needs material to build up and repair the wear and tear caused by activity, also fuel to burn, making activity possible. Protein is a distinct repairing or tissue-building material, and is found in quantities in meat, fish, eggs, cheese, milk and nuts.

Carbohydrates (sugar and starches), and the fats furnish the fuel for activity, and include sugar, molasses, honey, ripe and dried fruits, starchy vegetables and cereals.

Food rich in both protein and carbohydrates are peas, beans, lentils, oatmeal and wheat products; this includes all breads.

The body also requires mineral salts, which are supplied mainly in the various green and dried vegetables, fresh and dried fruits. Bulk or quantity is furnished also in the last-named foods.

This, of course, only touches very briefly on the subject of food values, but a comprehensive understanding of just these few principles will prove helpful when planning meals, and a properly balanced meal need not be a complicated, difficult one to prepare, but may be of the greatest simplicity or may offer as great a variety as desired, provided they contain the proper combination of foods; in other words, some protein, some carbohydrates and fat, some mineral salts and the necessary bulk.

The list of meat substitutes is a long and varied one. Eggs are fully as valuable as meat in both food value and digestibility.

Beans or lentils may take the place of meat. Boston baked beans, if properly prepared, are usually popular. Stuffed peppers or tomatoes make satisfactory luncheon or supper dishes.

Cottage Pie

Two cups of diced cooked meat, 1 cup of gravy or sauce, 1/2 cup of cooked peas, 1 tablespoon of grated onion, 2 cups of mashed potatoes.

Add peas and onion and diced meat to the gravy or well-seasoned sauce. Pour into a casserole or baking dish. Cover with mashed potato, brush the potato with slightly beaten egg or melted shortening. Brown in a hot oven.

Scalloped Meat

Cut bread in finger length strips.

Place a layer in a buttered baking dish and pour over enough gravy or brown sauce to moisten. Add a layer of thinly sliced or diced meat and a tablespoonful of finely chopped onion. Repeat until dish is filled, covering top layer of meat with buttered crumbs. Bake in a hot oven about 20 minutes.

Stuffed Green Peppers

Make a croquette mixture using any left-over meat. Scald peppers for five minutes in boiling water, then cut off the stem end and remove seeds. Fill with meat mixture, cover top with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven about 30 minutes. Serve with a tomato sauce.

Meat Pie

Two cups diced cooked meat, 2 cups of gravy or sauce, 1/2 cup of sliced cooked carrots, 1 cup of cooked diced potatoes, 2 onions sliced and cooked.

Pour all ingredients in a casserole or baking dish. Cover with half of the biscuit dough recipe or with plain pastry. Bake in a hot oven.

Creamed Dried Beef With Spaghetti

One cup dried beef, 2 cups white sauce, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 2 cups cooked hot spaghetti.

Cover dried beef with cold water and slowly bring to the boiling point and drain. Cut the hard-cooked eggs in slices. Prepare the white sauce, season and add the dried beef. Arrange the macaroni on a hot platter and pour over the creamed beef and garnish with the slices of hard-cooked eggs.

Chicken and Oyster Pie

Arrange slices of cooked chicken and oysters in layers in a large or individual baking dishes. Add a little chicken broth or oyster liquor and season. Cover the top with flaky pastry. Prick pastry to let out the steam. Bake in a hot oven.

Meat Eating Increases as Source of the Supply Moves Farther Away

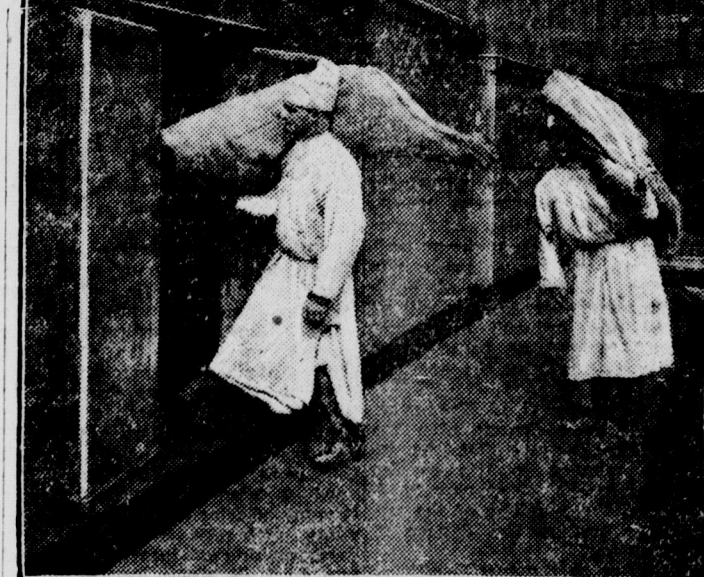

A recent study of the latest government census reports shows that although there are more people in the United States to feed and they are eating more meat, the source of meat supply is moving farther away. In other words, the center of live stock population has outstripped the center of human population in its movement westward.

The study also shows that due to this fact a steady supply of meat available at all times everywhere in the country can be maintained only by national packing organizations with facilities covering the whole country.

They make possible the movements of large quantities of meat from regions where production exceeds consumption into other regions where supply is inadequate. Otherwise industrial development in the East would not have been possible.

According to the census figures, the center of human population is in Western Indiana, a little south-west of Indianapolis; that of cattle is in Western Kansas; of sheep in Western Nebraska near the Colorado state line. The center of swine population is in Missouri, and of dairy cattle in Western Illinois. This situation in America is entirely different from that in Europe, where regions of large consumption of farm products are never far removed from regions of agricultural production, and where only a limited movement of agricultural commodities is necessary. There, producer and consumer are almost next-door-neighbors.

There are 67 large public live stock markets in the country and 65 per cent of the business is done at 12 of these. The remainder mostly serve local packing plants which are important to communities that are more or less self-supporting in live stock production. The location of the national packing plants, however, follows closely the distribution of the 12 principal markets which form a front from north to south through the center of the country. Along the Atlantic seaboard there is as a rule only one-tenth of a head of beef cattle per capita, and a similar proportion is found in the case of swine and sheep. Until the Mississippi river is crossed the proportion of live stock is rarely more than one-third the population. This means, of course, that the most densely populated section of the United States is deficient in local production, and must get meats and dairy products from distant sections.

This will be the first attempt at putting on a show of this kind, but since they have secured the services of Scotty Butterworth and Miss Madeline Powell in coaching them for this affair it is felt that the success of the show is assured, as Mr. Butterworth and Miss Powell have been highly successful in developing similar shows, one of them being the annual minstrel show given in South San Francisco. The rehearsals are held in the Colma Community Center building on Dunk street each Wednesday evening, and they give promise of great results.

The Village Festival is to be given for the purpose of paying off the mortgage of Holy Angels Parish in the Oleese building the evenings of August 21, 22 and 23.

Miss Mamie Gotelli and Mr. James Howell Lloyd were united in marriage by the Rev. Father Charles J. Bertola in Holy Angels Church last Sunday at 2:30 o'clock. The little church, which was beautifully decorated, was thronged with relatives and well wishers of the couple. Miss Gotelli, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Gotelli, was graduated from Jefferson grammar school. Mr. Lloyd lived in San Bruno for many years but recently adopted Colma as his home town. He is better known as "Mickey" Lloyd. The bride wore white crepe de chine with a beautiful tulle and lace veil. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley. CHRYSLER HANGS UP NEW RECORD

Chalk up another record for the Chrysler Six!

The Reliance Garage announces word from the South, its complete shattering of the San Diego El Centro one-way and round-trip records with a stock Chrysler touring car, driven by a member of the San Diego Dealers' Organization. The round-trip record was reduced by a full 43 minutes when the Chrysler scored over the tortuous mountain roads, a distance of 176 miles in five hours and three minutes.

Neal S. Peterson, automobile editor of the San Diego Union, who acted as timer and observer on the run, tells of the trip: "First day night as the Western Union clock dinged 12 the Chrysler, driven by Fred Pullol, and carrying three other passengers, dashed up Fourth street and almost before we knew it was out into the open country and starting its steady climb to the summit of the range between San Diego and the Imperial valley. The car swung along up the tortuous grade like a thing alive, and apparently without effort. On the grade down into El Centro I had my first experience with hydraulic four-wheel brakes. Pullol was enabled to go into turns at break-neck speed and then ease the car down so easily and smoothly that I believe credit must be given to the braking as well as to the speed of the car for the shattering of the record."

El Centro Check-in

"We checked in at the El Centro Western Union office exactly at 2:30 a. m., and after a five-minute rest were away on the return trip. Up that long, hair-breaking grade again and down the coast side like a breath of wind! Pullol rolled the little thoroughbred up to the curb at the starting point at 5:08 a. m. Deducting the five-minute rest period at El Centro the Chrysler showed five hours and three minutes actual running time. The previous record, established by a high priced car, was five hours 46 minutes. The Chrysler also broke the one-way record by four minutes in making the run in two hours and 30 minutes. These records are more remarkable in that the Chrysler carried four men or the trip over the mountains, while previous records have been made with only two passengers."

The local Chrysler distributors in commenting on the recent records established by the Chrysler in California said: "These tests are made in a great many cases through the enthusiasm of an owner over the performance of his car, or as the result of a wager. Speed and mountain work are the sure tests of a car's ability to stand up under hard usage."

Peninsulans to Ask State to Finance New Highways in Region

Convinced that the importance of the proposed Bayshore highway from San Francisco down the peninsula and of the Skyline boulevard is such as to make the building of the extensions of these roads a state obligation, Chairman Harvey M. Toy of the California State Highway Commission has been appealing to civic bodies in the peninsula and valley territory from San Francisco to Gilroy to bring their persuasive powers to bear upon the legislature, acting through the committee of nine, which is making a survey of highway conditions with a view to making recommendations to the legislature as to state expenditures for highway construction.

The letter from Chairman Toy to the various civic organizations, setting forth in full the proposition, says:

"A traffic census taken Sunday, July 27, showed 40,000 automobiles passing Redwood City on the Peninsula highway. This seems to be an unanswerable argument for another road into San Francisco and a call for immediate action on the part of every resident of San Francisco and peninsula districts."

To Relieve Congestion

"The Bayshore highway, running from Army street, San Francisco, to South San Francisco, thence directly across the marsh land to Pacific City and San Mateo thence directly to San Jose, goes back of the congested towns, will solve to a great extent the terrific traffic jams that are upon us and will increase traffic."

"The City of San Francisco has agreed to pay $500,000 for the first unit of the Bayshore highway in San Mateo county from South San Francisco to Pacific City. The state should finish the job, as it is a road of great state importance and should be taken over by the next legislature as a state highway and funds provided for its construction. A right-of-way 125 feet in width should be provided."

"All this can be accomplished if you really want this additional highway."

The average owner is not interested in traveling 70 miles per hour in a car, but he knows that a car built to develop and sustain that speed will give unlimited service at the average highway speed of 35 miles per hour."

NO ALTERNATIVE FOR VIOLATORS OF LIGHT LAWS

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14—Under an order issued by Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles, to all state highway traffic officers, which was made public today, all violators of headlight provisions of the law will be arrested and ordered to appear in court instead of being given citations as has been the previous custom.

Chief Inspector C. K. Harder explains that this drastic step has been taken because "of the increasing menace to life on the public highways of glaring headlights and the inability of the motorists to realize the danger of the situation."

The order to the traffic officers reads in part:

"Upon receipt of this order, you will discontinue using headlight citations and start arresting all violators of headlight provisions and cite them to appear in court in the township in which they are arrested. If the arrested parties can show the court that these lights have been properly adjusted by presenting a certificate dated after date of arrest the court will have to dismiss them. If lights are not adjusted within 24 hours, as provided in Section 102 (2) he will not be entitled to dismissal and will then have to appear by the decision of the court."

All Peninsula Roads In Good Condition Now

With the completion of the Chittenden Pass road, from Sargents to Watsonville, all roads on the peninsula are now in good shape, according to the touring bureau of the California State Automobile Association. The Big Basin road from Saratoga to the Basin and thence to Boulder Creek is holding up splendidly and travel is very heavy through this section. The Skyline boulevard is also in good shape to Crystal Springs where it connects with the Half Moon Bay road, making an interesting round trip to Half Moon Bay either by way of San Mateo or the Skyline. Many week-end and picnic trips are made from Redwood City to Searsville Lake, or to La Honda and thence across to the coast and San Gregorio, returning through Half Moon Bay.

Violators stopped by the officers were given a citation ordering them to have their lights adjusted within 24 hours and to report the adjustment to a local peace officer. Officials of the division say hundreds of motorists disregarded the citation, thereby making it necessary to check over the records and secure warrants for the arrest of the offenders.

Pedestrians to Blame For Many Fatal Accidents, Is Claim of Automobile Ass'n

That motorists are being damned for many fatal accidents which should more properly be charged to carelessness of pedestrians is born out by national statistics, says Percy E. Towne, chairman of the public safety department of the California State Automobile Association.

"Recent figures compiled from reports from 217 of the larger cities of the country by the traffic safety committee of the National Automobile chamber of commerce, show that out of the 1,296 fatal accidents analyzed, involving collision between motor vehicles and pedestrians, only 492, or 38 per cent, were accidents in which the fault of the motorists was the major factor," says Towne. "In 635 cases the major fault was charged to the pedestrian, and in 268 cases the accident was chargeable to physical conditions—weather, defects in the machine or roadway."

Show Lack of Caution

"Analysis of coroner's inquest reports in San Francisco bears out the national figures, which only go to prove that the men, women and children on foot must use equal caution with the motorists if the growing toll of traffic deaths is to be checked. Nearly 70 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents reported involve pedestrians, the national figures show."

However, the public safety leader warns, California law still puts the burden of responsibility on the motor vehicle driver, and motorists will continue to bear the major part of public censure so long as speeding and reckless driving continue. According to reports from the state motor vehicle department, 83 per cent of convictions for vehicle act violations in this state during the first six months of this year were for speeding and reckless driving. The total number of convictions were 34,692, of which 20,144 were for speeding and 8,616 for reckless driving.

"Fatal and serious accidents will continue so long as drivers continue to speed on blind turns, at intersections and in congested districts," Towne says. "The California vehicle act clearly holds in violation of the law the driver who fails to drive cautiously at all times, and in such a manner as not to endanger the life, limb or property of any person."

World production of tobacco is nearly 4,000,000,000 pounds, slightly more than one-third.

DEALER TELLS DODGE POLICY

It is quite evident from the comment of buyers, according to Dessin Bros., local dealers of Dodge Brothers cars and Graham trucks, that while the significance of Dodge Brothers' policy of making constant improvements in their motor cars instead of changing models every year, is recognized, they fully appreciate other points that tend to increase sound value in the product.

"It is a recognition that the product represents sound value that has enabled this car to roll up the production records that it has this year, which, after all, is only another way of saying that it has established new sales records."

"People are becoming educated in the ways of automobile merchandising," said W. J. Dessin, "and are putting their approval on Dodge Brothers' policy of eliminating the distributor in their sales organization."

"The question of profits to many middlemen has captured public attention, and it has come to realize that the method of distribution that delivers the largest value to the ultimate consumer is that method which reduces the number of middlemen to the minimum."

The Dodge Policy

"Dodge Brothers' policy of a large number of dealers in direct connection with the factory, instead of a number of dealers under a distributor who controls a large area, is recognized as the straight line between factory and purchaser, as well as being the least costly to the ultimate owner."

"Buyers like the idea of no free service policy, preferring to pay for service when they need it, rather than paying for something in advance in a lump that they may never need. And the motorist knows that either in the original purchase price or when the work is done, all servicing on his car is paid by himself."

'LIVING LIGHT' TO FEATURE GREEK TRAGEDY

Beautiful Lighting Effects Planned for Stanford Museum Stage

Shafts of "Living Light" will give unusual electrical effects to the classic facade of the Leland Stanford Junior Museum next Friday evening when Sophocles' Greek tragedy, "Oedipus Rex" is presented in the specially built Greek theater with the museum portico as a stage by a cast of 75 Palo Alto and Stanford actors.

Under the direction of Hume West of Los Angeles two tall light towers have been erected on either side of the huge stage from which a battery of flood lights will sweep the entire front of the building. Action in the Greek play takes place from morning to night and West and his trained corps of assistants have so arranged their lights that the shades of color blend perfectly.

Tonight, Directors Evelyn Thomas and Gordon Davis will hold the first dress rehearsal of the play. Nightly for the past two weeks dozens of motorists from the peninsula and valley sectors have flocked to Stanford to witness "Oedipus" in rehearsal, but announcement was made today by the executive staff of the presentation that all roads leading to the museum will be closed tonight and tomorrow night.

BONUS GIVEN AT CHEVROLET PARTY

According to Edgar H. Lewis, local Chevrolet dealer, one of the most enjoyable and important meetings in automobile circles, to be held in this section in recent years, was the "big bonus party" tendered to about 100 Chevrolet dealers by the Chevrolet Motor Company, in Oakland, and San Francisco, Friday and Friday night, August 1.

Two Pullmans from Los Angeles arrived at the Oakland plant about 9 o'clock, bringing Chevrolet dealers from Southern California and Arizona, and at about the same time two more Pullmans, pulled in from the North, bringing Chevrolet dealers from Seattle, Portland, Bellingham, Everett, Spokane, Wenatchee, Sedro Woolley, Grants Pass, Hood River, Salem, Boise, etc. Some 30 odd dealers from the Sacramento, San Joaquin, Santa Clara valleys and bay territory were also on hand.

The gathering of these leading Chevrolet merchants from the Pacific coast, at the big plant in Oakland, was the occasion of the disbursement by the company to them, of something upwards of one-half million dollars in checks, for exceptional sales records made during the past season.

There were no business sessions, but the entire day was given over to fun making and a good time. A huge tent entirely enclosed the Chevrolet ball park, from which three large balloons were anchored. Within the fun took place.

WHEN the winter storms rage and you are comfortably seated in your home, these men are patrolling lines, flumes and ditches, battling snow, sleet and ice to keep the water flowing. If it freezes up and fails to flow to the power house, the generators stop and the electric energy ceases to flow.

Tons of snow, sleet and ice often accumulate on power lines, breaking them down with the weight. These men endeavor to avoid the breaking, but should it occur, they make temporary repairs and rush crews to the scene, so that you may continue to enjoy the comfort and convenience that electric energy brings.

Doing for others—withstanding hardships—a noble cause indeed is the spirit that spurs these men on, assuring you of continuous service.

Mrs. Fred Lagomarsino left last Wednesday for Long Beach, where she will spend two weeks with her sister, Mrs. M. R. Craig, formerly of this city.

Word has been received from Mrs. Mary Lemmens and son, Bernard, who are spending several months in Louisiana, that they are having an enjoyable time, but there is no place like California.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Bevers of San Francisco were visitors recently at the Lagomarsino home on Baden avenue.

Breezes From Windfield

Al Rubiola certainly enjoyed his home-coming. He made three safe hits off Ted Allen, as follows: One two-bagger, one three-bagger, and one two-bagger. All of which constitutes an afternoon of hitting.

Home-run Kelley continues merrily on his way as the hardest hitter in the league. He went hitless his first trip at bat Monday, but on his second he poked one into deep right field for four bases. Dick Bollier got two hits in two trips to the rubber and thereby strengthened his hitting average noticeably. Bollier takes a free and easy cut at the ball.

Two Wallace and two Butlers grace the lineup of the new Pacific Coast Steel nine.

Rudy, catcher for the Enterprise Foundry nine, umpired Monday's contest and escaped with a whole hide. Who knows he may be pressed into service again? Good umpires are hard to find.

The Marble Works nine has had difficulty getting under way lately. They play the same lineup weekly, but one or two of the boys show a tendency to boot them freely. It is predicted they will get going right shortly and give the best teams a tough battle.

Belloni, Marble Works right fielder, never played baseball before he entered the league this season. He is awkward going after fly balls, but he never lets go when he gets his hands on the ball. He got his first base hit on Tuesday off Ted Allen.

Woodman and Allen got two hits apiece off Rubiola Tuesday. One of Allen's was for three bases.

Chief islands of the Mediterranean sea are Balearic, Sardinia, Corsica, Sicily, Crete and Cyprus.

MAD COW STAMPEDES HOUSEHOLD CHILDREN ARE THREATENED BY WILD BEAST 'BULL IN CHINA SHOP' EMULATED

REDWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—Not to be outdone by the famous "Bull in the China Shop," of adage fame, a temporarily maddened cow, the property of Mrs. W. P. Weeks of Harrison, Sunday spread terror in the summer home of Mrs. Lloyd C. Zook of this city, at Harrison, when it charged down a hillside into the home, damaged furniture and threatened the lives of three small children.

Genuine tragedy was averted, it is reported, when Frank Perks of San Francisco, vacationing in the vicinity, routed the infuriated beast from the Zook home and saved the three little girls, who had been cornered by the charges of the cow.

The three children were Bernice Martin and two nieces of Mrs. Zook, who resides on Arch street, this city.

Snorting and bellowing her rage, the cow charged into an open door of the Zook summer place, crashing furniture and running madly through the rooms of the house. The three little girls were in the house at the time and, terrified, were cornered by the animal. Their screams and the noise of the maddened beast brought the aid of Perks, who armed himself with a club and proceeded to rout the animal, which charged down the hillside into pasture land from which it came.

Start Them In Young!

AN important duty of parents in bringing up children is teaching them to be—THRIFTY. Once taught, they'll take just as much pride in saving as a grown-up. Start an account for the youngster with this bank. And, as soon as he or she is able to understand, your youngster will be happy for it and eager to add what little he or she can save. Better talk this over with us today.
